

Renew or New

Right side
Left side
Back
Tossing and turning

Decisions are mounting
Uncertainties hovering
Like the flapping wings of a mosquito
Robbing
Priceless hours
Of charging my batteries
For a new day

Some hours ago
Midnight gave its visit
The digital numbers
Have since
Moved into deeper AM

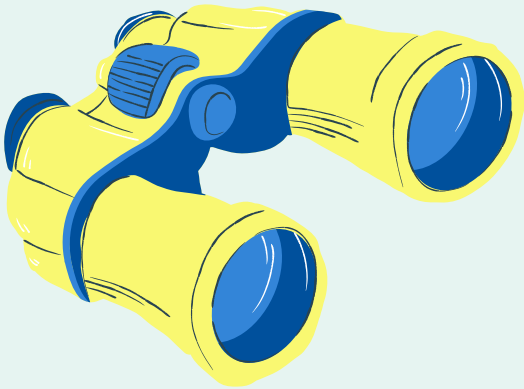

Can you make up my mind for me?

Story as follows:

I have two options
Like a crossroad
It is not life altering
But still
It is another thirteen weeks of life
Commitment
For more time

My current job is great
It knows benefits
And fringes
I love the place
I am attached
More than I like to admit

Renew my contract or not?

But this is not my only options
There are more contracts out there
Beckoning to me
Calling my name
Loudly
Like an adventure
Exploration of foreign land
Rate is winning
But the experience unknown
I will be new to a place again

Here I know the ins
I can walk the routine
In blindfold

The guy who says good morning
The girl who drinks a coffee
The lead who is groggy
And the one who falls asleep midsentence.

New is a challenge
But the fun kind of challenge
It is so me

Yet my old place has a smell I know
Posters I have posed by Patients I remembered
Experiences I savored

Say Goodbye?

Maybe I'll make my decision soon.

Unlikely

Perhaps you will still find me
Tossing and turning
Back
Quandering,
Again
And again

Renew or new?
